

K-LOVE is extremely important to me, my family, others within my own city, and many others around the United States. I listen to K-LOVE every day. K-LOVE is a great service to multitudes of people around the globe as well. K-LOVE listeners are a tight-knit group and their daily lives would be greatly disrupted if the FCC stepped in to regulate them. It would be a tragedy if, by adopting FCC's possible changes, it caused a tremendous negative impact on the quality music, uplifting programming, and spiritual renewal I receive from my current K-LOVE radio station. It would upset me and many others throughout this country. Although this isn't your intention, you need to know your regulation is not in the best interest of K-LOVE or any other Christian music radio station. K-LOVE literally saves lives. They have pastors available 24/7. They offer their listeners to actually make comments about what songs they'd like to hear more often or less often. They have no commercials, which listeners really appreciate. They have top-notch staff and programs. K-LOVE has made and will continue to make a positive influence in the way I live my life.

Advisory boards would allow specific individuals to make negative changes not in line with the Christian mission of the radio station. Additional staffing would require additional monies necessary to support such measures, thereby making funding of personnel more important than the program content of the radio station itself. More funds are hard to come by and are not necessary to continue with the current staffing and programming efforts of K-LOVE radio. Higher financial needs could possibly result in other affiliate stations being dropped entirely. That decreases the Christian coverage currently offered by K-LOVE. Forcing K-LOVE translators off the air only to allow new low power fm stations would not allow current translators to carry the K-LOVE programming.

Please, don't follow through with these regulations. You'll be jeopardizing an incredible ministry that has touched thousands of lives over the years. Please, don't let that happen.
